Katie Brown can't talk without her hands.

Repunzel, Repunzel let down your hair.

Tamar Dersch and Amy Tooley get carried away.

Sarah Ice says, "Daddy, you need to shave!"

The Patriots come one goal closer to the state championship game.

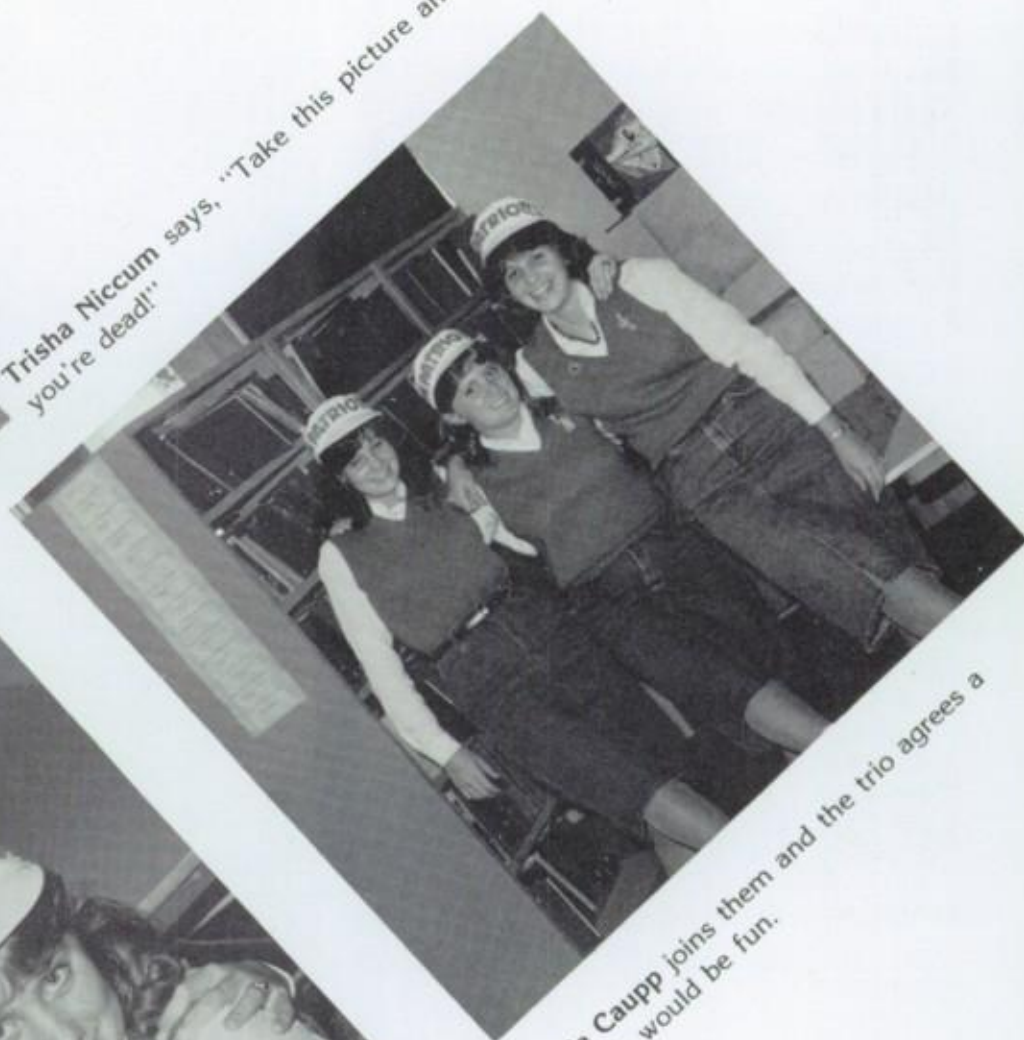

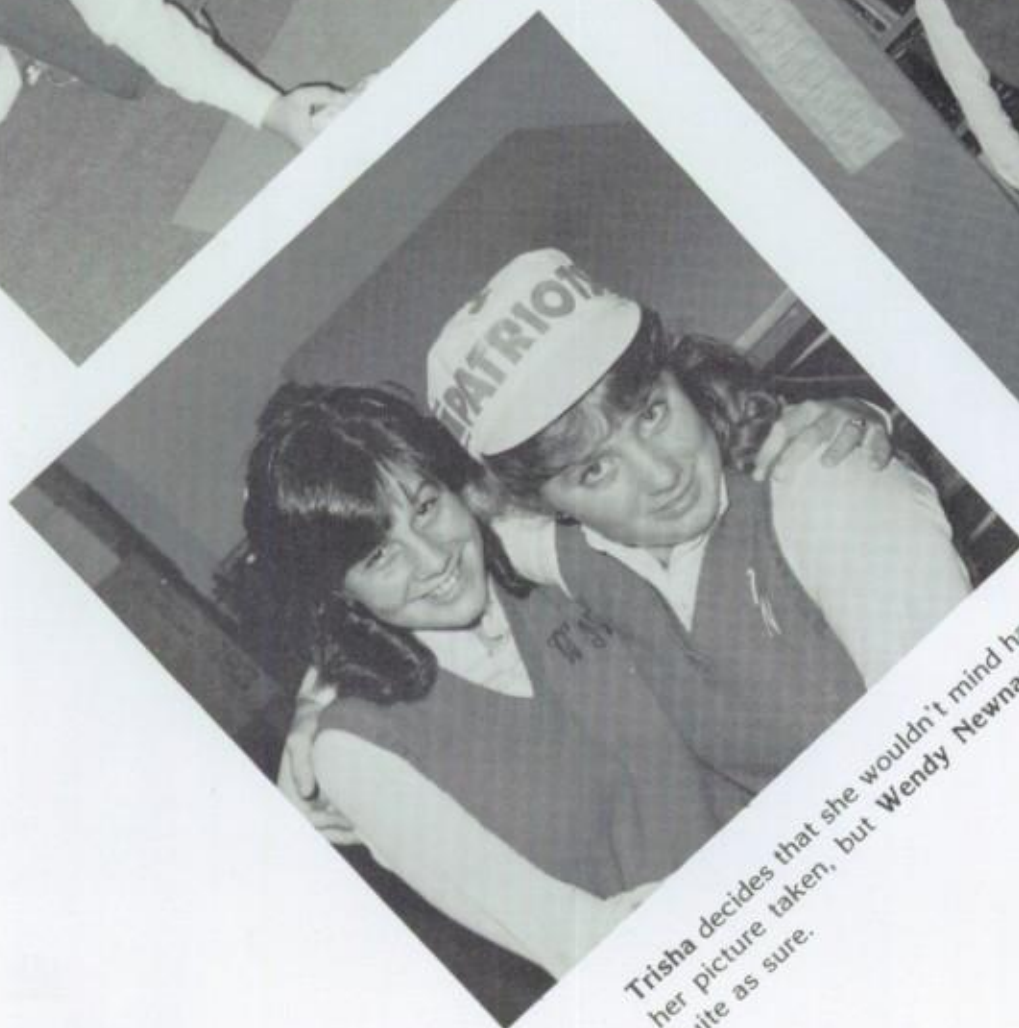

Wendy Williams, Susan Richardson, and Kristy Wallace don't seem too interested in the Jr. High soccer game against St. Mary's. They scored six, we scored nun.

Trisha Niccum says, "Take this picture and you're dead!"

Julie Caupp joins them and the trio agrees a picture would be fun.

Trisha decides that she wouldn't mind having her picture taken, but Wendy Newnam isn't quite as sure.

ONE OF A KIND

Heritage Hall Christian School offers a unique blend of scholastic, physical, and spiritual development. The school verse, "Lo, children are an heritage of the Lord:" (Psalms 127:3) indicates the responsibility and accountability that the administration, faculty and staff feel they have to provide an atmosphere of achievement.

Heritage Hall has several goals. Academic excellence is achieved through a complete curriculum and dedicated staff. Extra-curricular activities include a sports and a fine arts program, teaching cooperation, competition and responsibility. The Christ-centered programs, such as chapel and Bible classes, along with the philosophy and atmosphere of the school provide each student with the environment to achieve spiritual growth. The emphasis on finding and doing God's will prevails. The Bible reads, "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it." Heritage Hall trains students in the right way. When it comes to education, Heritage Hall Christian School is ONE OF A KIND.

Best friends Oliver Brunson and Daniel Anderson spend time together.

Loyally following their commander, the senior class voyages into the unknown.

Sandi Wood flashes her pearly whites.

Ball team players display their enthusiasm during a pep session.

This locker shrinks every day!" sighs Myra Branham as she makes a last effort to fit all her belongings into #169.

The three stooges Moe, Larry and Curly . . . or is that Mandy, Kristi, and Jade?

The elementary boys find comradery while using the new playground equipment.

Andy Zirkle dribbles past opponents for a shot on goal.

Attempting to impress the females Gordon Cooper displays his ardour.

Mighty Men Of Valor

"Mighty Men of Valor" was the theme for the week of orientation camp at Camp Crosley for the 1984-85 school year.

Mr. Marty Herron, from Dunbar, Wisconsin, was the speaker for the week.

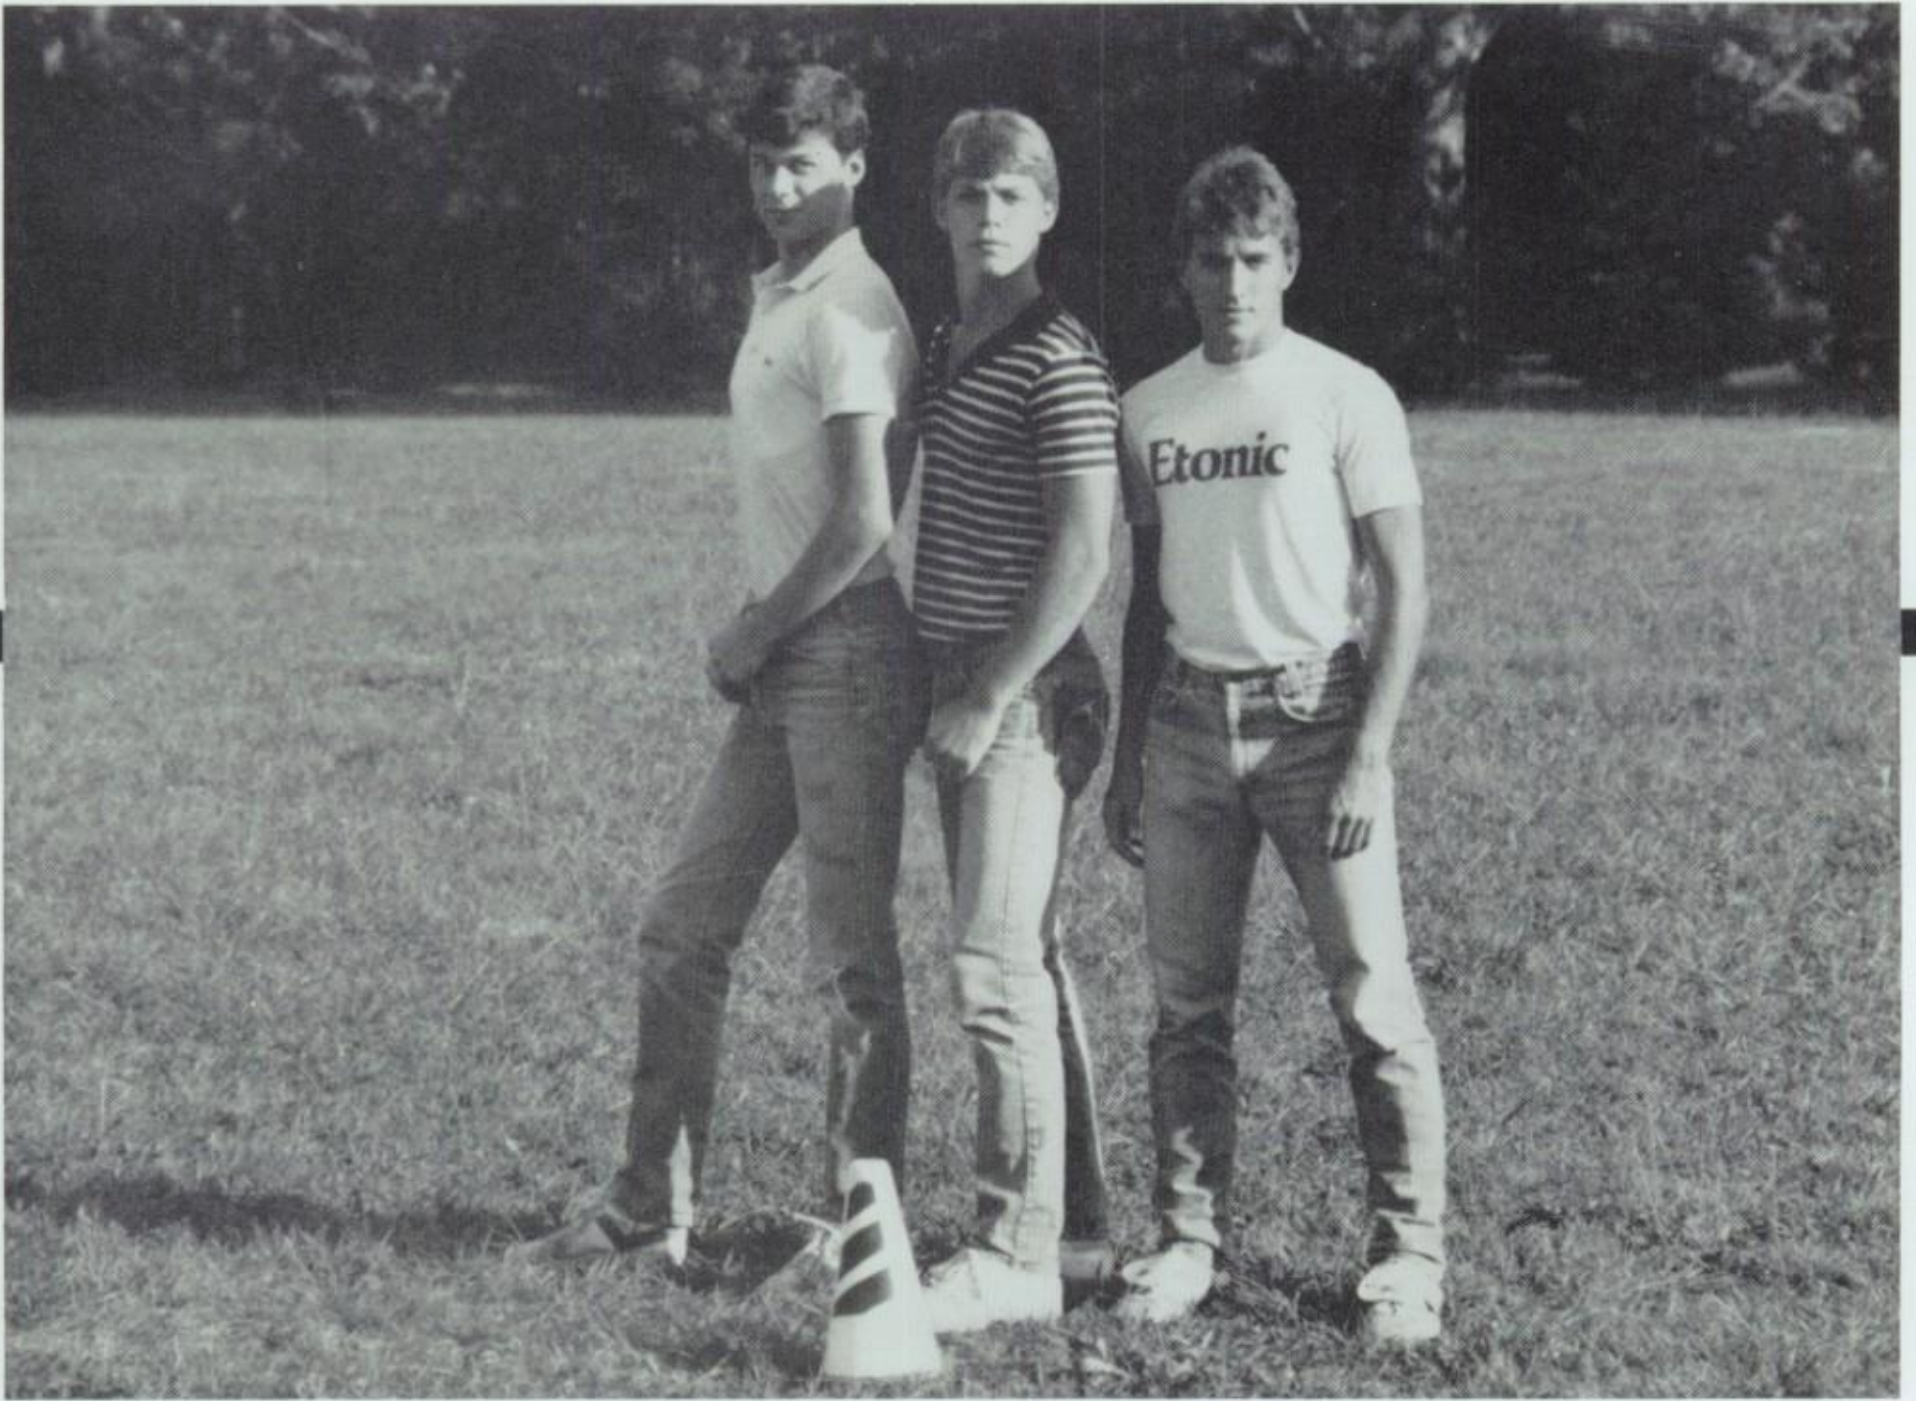

We were all divided into two teams, the Prophets and Disciples. The competition involved athletic events and Bible memory. The spirit developed during this week led to increased fun and fellowship among the returning students as well as the newcomers.

"Come on, Mr. Scott. Surely you can serve the ball that far," teases Kyle Mallot.

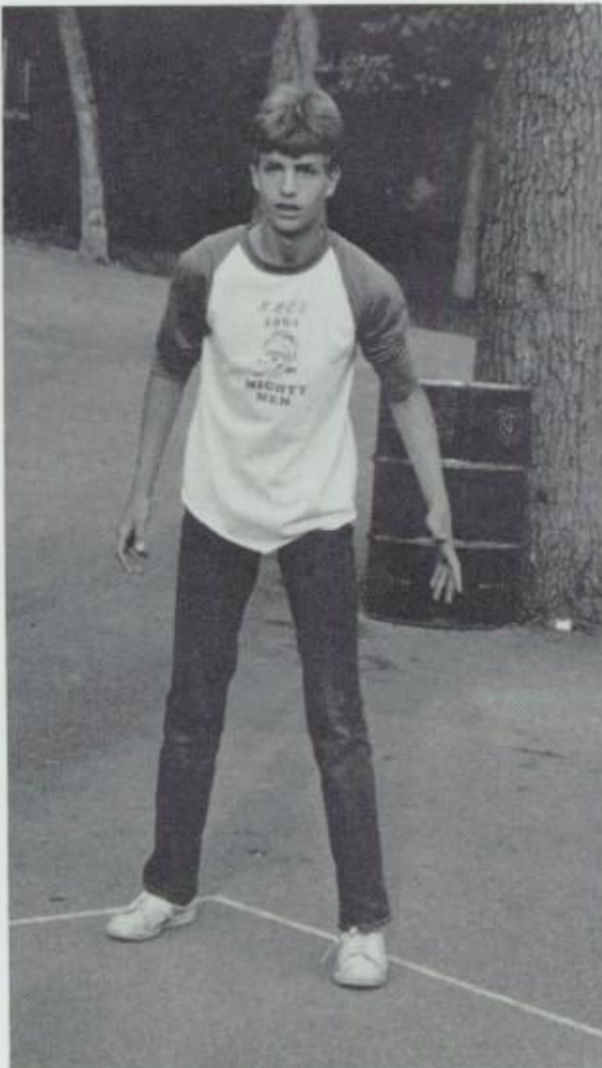

Preparing for a devastating pitch, Steve Shroyer concentrates on his target.

Passing the time before a meal, Randy Glenn blesses Sandi Wood and Lori Morvilius with his presence.

Derek Cheek, Randy Glenn, and Brent Stephens display their "mighty men" look.

Anticipating the serve, Dan Poston takes time out to play four square.

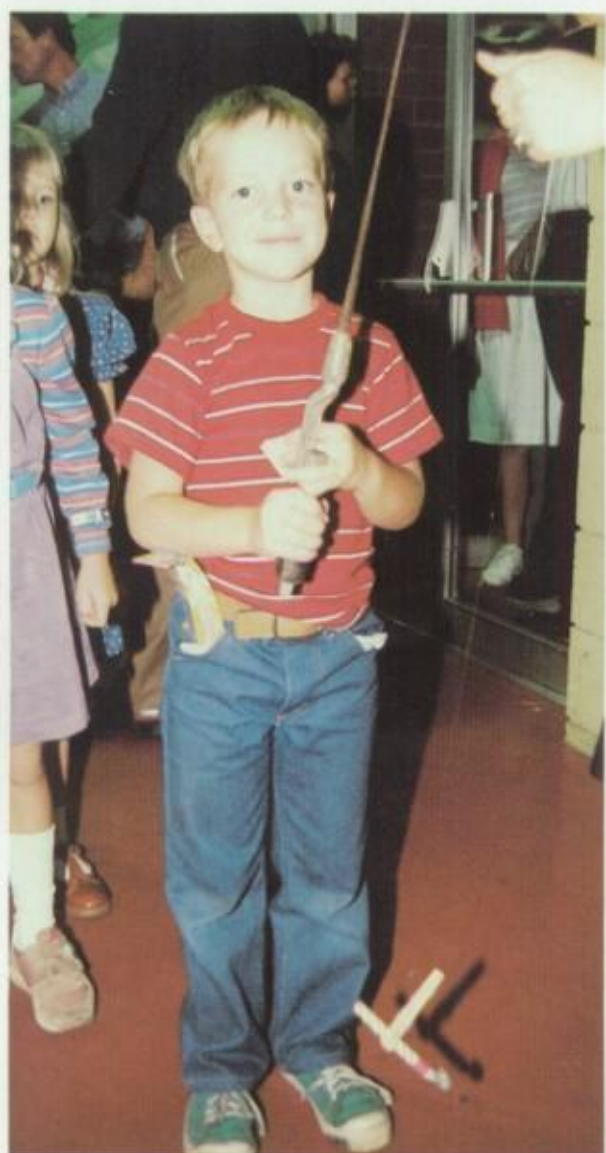

Lecturing in chapel, Mr. Ice prepares us for the coming year.

A fantastic fair

This year's Country Fair was, as usual, a huge success, boasting three new attractions and fun for all who came. The stage for the evening was set when the Patriots defeated Colonial Christian 2-1 in a varsity soccer match.

The "free" car wash was one of the new attractions, with the sophomore class washing a total of 166 cars. Calebs Kin had a unique booth offering exceptionally handcrafted items. Throughout the evening, the cake walk, sponsored by the primary teachers, rewarded homemade goodies to those involved in the activity. The line for obtaining a delicious elephant ear was always long, and ironically the line for dunking our favorite headmaster was quite the same. The enthusiasm, good spirit, and hard work combined to make an enjoyable evening, memorable for everyone.

Trick photography? Or is Wendy Newnam actually doing work.

Mike Talhelm displays his catch of the day.

New student Dacia Gunn learns to "take it on the chin" in the sponge toss.

Eager to buy a keychain, Amber Whitehead avidly searches for her name

"Don't worry, I'll fix it!" says Andy Haney; but Brent Stephens has his doubts.

Scott Richardson winds up to deliver the dunking pitch.

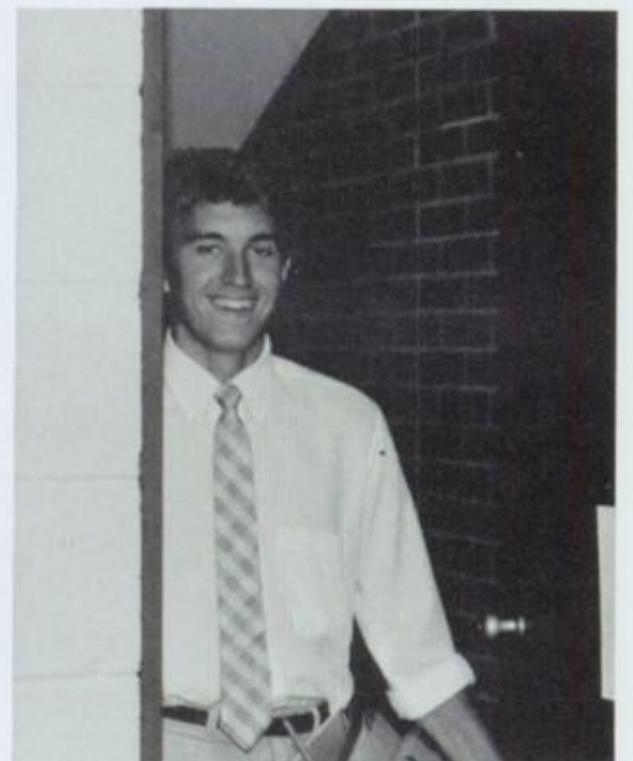

Despite adverse circumstances, Derek Young manages to keep his cool.

Dr. Brown shows his wife the correct procedure for frying elephant ears.

"But . . . No one told me it was a race!" sighs Pastor Glenn.

"One of a kind" are the best words one could ever choose to describe Heritage Hall's high school. Throughout the challenging year, the secondary level has thoroughly exemplified that one of a kind spirit. Her spirituality stands apart from the world. Her academics are a notch above the rest. And in athletics she has fully proven her uniqueness. But the high school is more than books and soccer balls — it's people. And each individual person and personality is really what makes the high school, "One of a Kind".

The Junior High years are a vital time for a student's maturity. These years present many new and exciting changes from the younger elementary level. A student faces the challenges of enlarged responsibilities in and out of class. Along with all the building of academics comes the building of character. Each student must now learn to balance a scholastic, athletic and spiritual life all at the same time. It is this new character that makes the Junior High "One of a Kind."

Attitudes, opinions, and basic school fundamentals are developed daily. Teaching children about the Lord, and obedience to Him are always foremost in the lessons. In preschool, the little children learn the things that will help them throughout their whole life.

Heritage Hall is only as good as the leadership. The administration, faculty and staff are dedicated to serving God and being faithful to the task of instilling Christian character in the lives of each student. Every teacher is willing to give time and effort to help the students develop physically, academically and spiritually. This attitude leads to making Heritage Hall a school that is ONE OF A KIND.

FACULTY AND STAFF

ADMINISTRATION

Heritage Hall is a ministry of Grace Baptist Church. The president, Pastor Collins Glenn, oversees the entire operation of the school and church. He meets with the school faculty and staff once a week for a time of devotion and challenge. Mr. Ice, Headmaster of Heritage Hall, controls the day-to-day school operation. These two men, through their leadership, direct our school in its every course.

SUPERVISORS

A great amount of responsibility has been placed upon the supervisors of Heritage Hall. These leaders are actively involved in the teaching process as well supervising their part of school operation. Their expertise allows the teachers to consult them for advice concerning nearly any school-related issue. They are dedicated to their task of making Heritage Hall a place of academic and spiritual growth.

Academics at Heritage Hall are extremely demanding. Each student is expected to work to the best of their ability. The several courses offered are specially designed to fully prepare the student for college and responsibilities of life. Proverbs 1:7 states, "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge," and Heritage Hall academics are based on that fear. Each class brings the Bible into a practical light while applying its mighty truths.

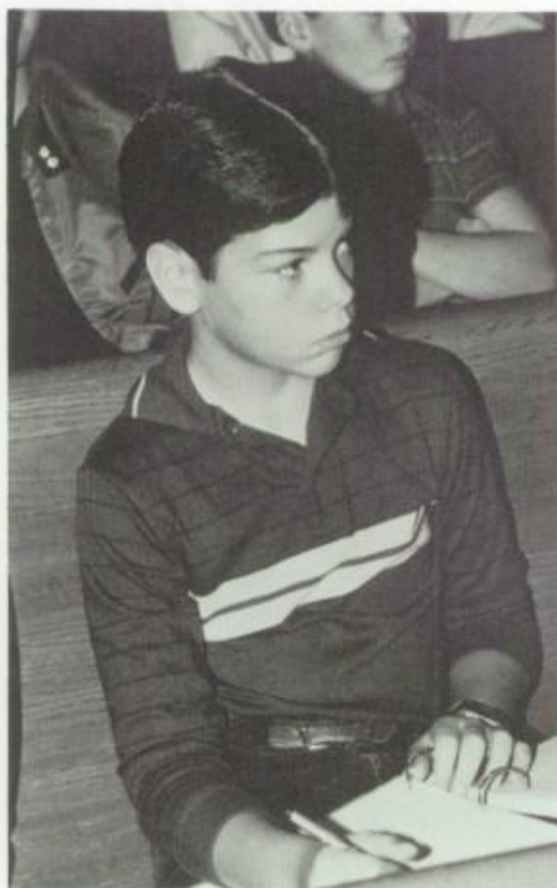

ACADEMICS

BIBLE

One thing that makes Heritage Hall a one of a kind school is the fact that the Bible is the basis for every subject taught, whether it be English, math, or history. The high school Bible classes this year studied Acts, Romans, I Corinthians, and II Corinthians. The junior high studied characters from the Old Testament.

Each year students are chosen to compete on the Bible quiz team during the Academic Meet in the spring. This gives the team members an opportunity for further study of God's Word. Chapel messages given by Mr. Ice and other speakers also helped each student learn more about the Bible and how to apply it to daily living.

Shane Pequignot finds taking notes on chapel messages helpful.

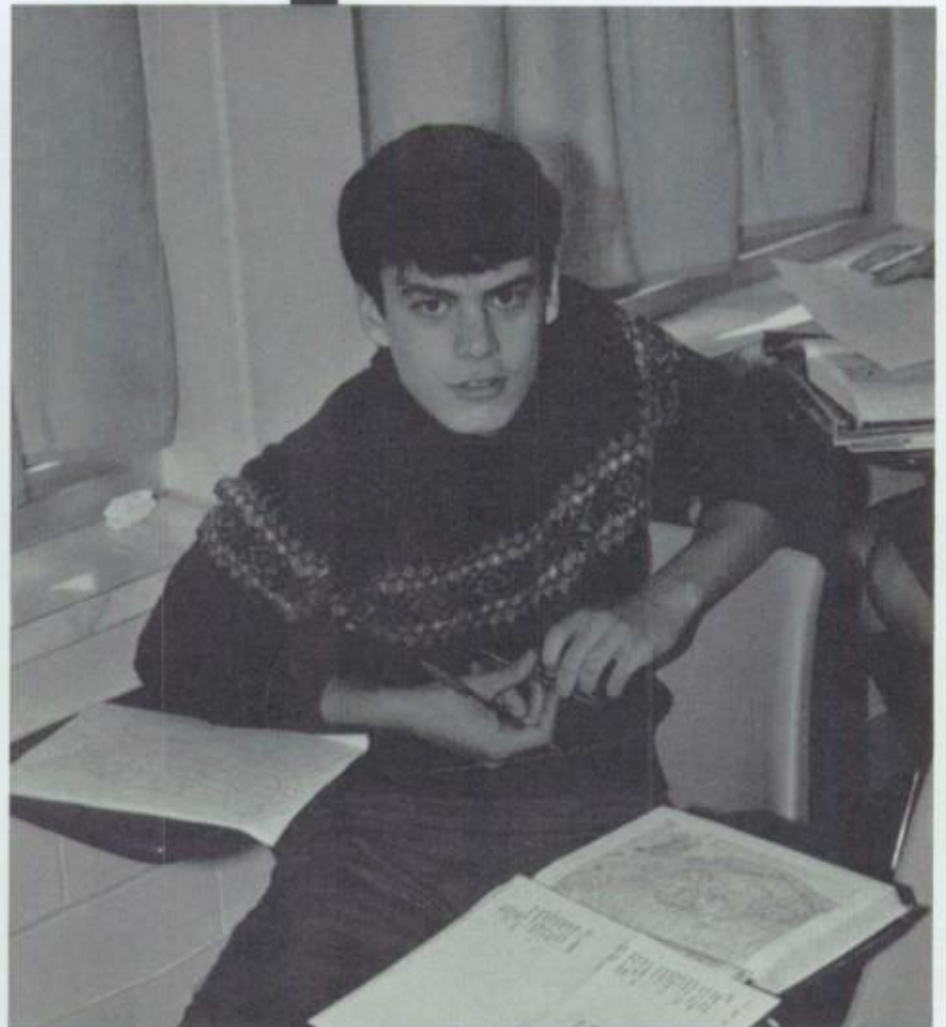

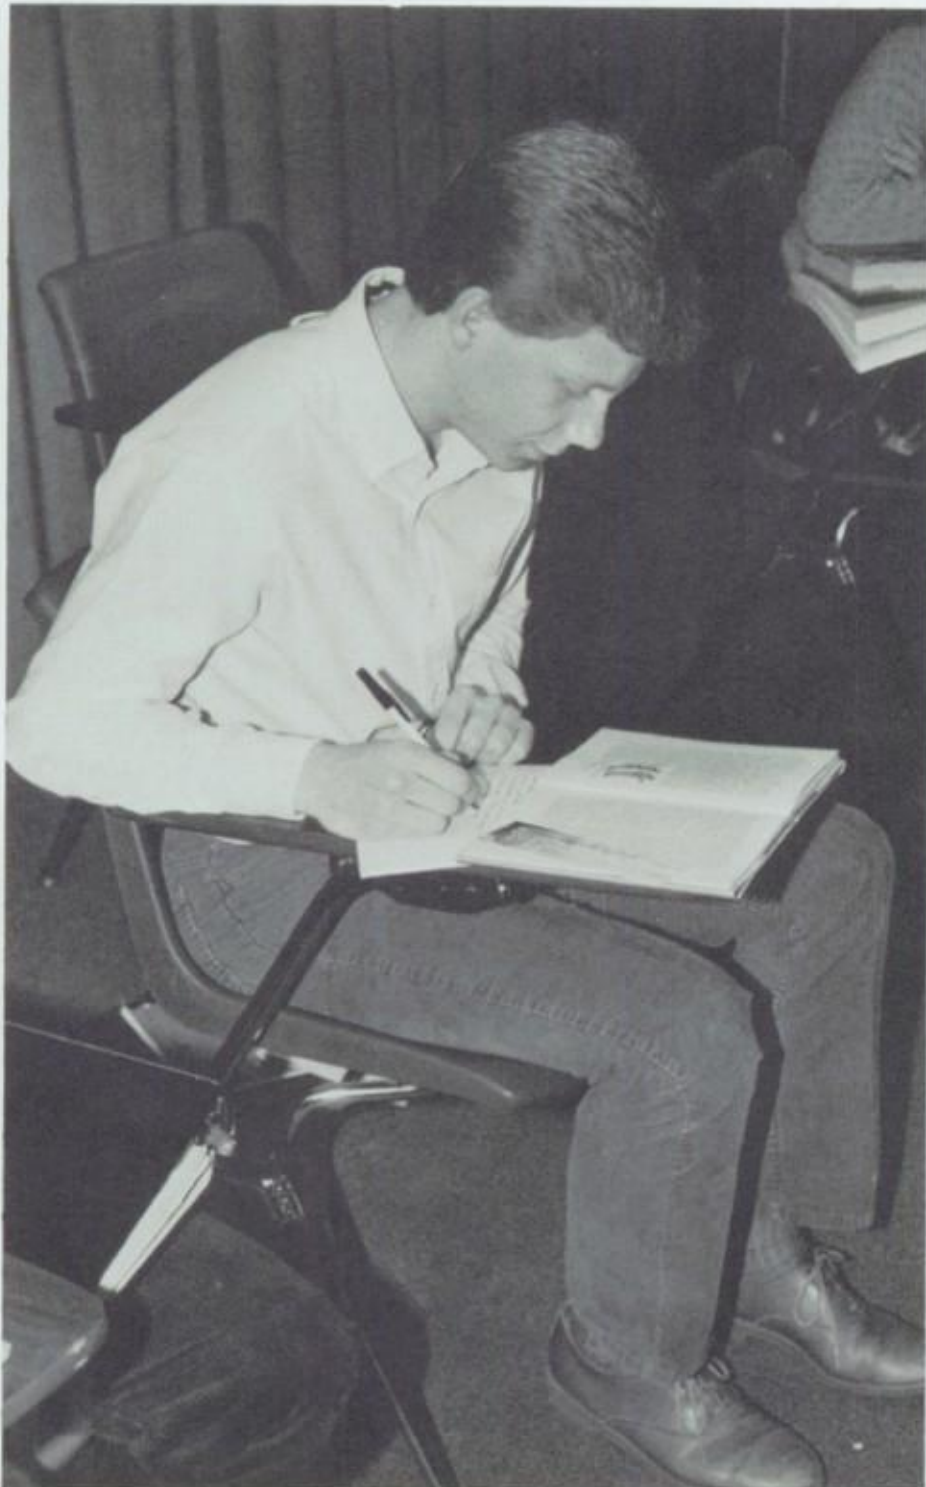

Preaching sermons in Bible class gives Rob Stroup a glimpse of what it might be like to be a pastor.

The senior high Bible quiz team.

ENGLISH AND HISTORY

Heritage Hall places great emphasis upon the fundamentals of education. Both English and History play a vital role in that education. Each student is required to take four years of both classes. English helps to sharpen the student's writing skills while expanding their overall knowledge of world literature. History, on the other hand, provides the student with a solid understanding of man's past in order that they may fully understand man's present and future. Without these two important classes each student's education would be incomplete.

Lory Lenig wishes she could take back what she just said.

As he completes his nap, Todd Sciscoe wonders why he is on the earth.

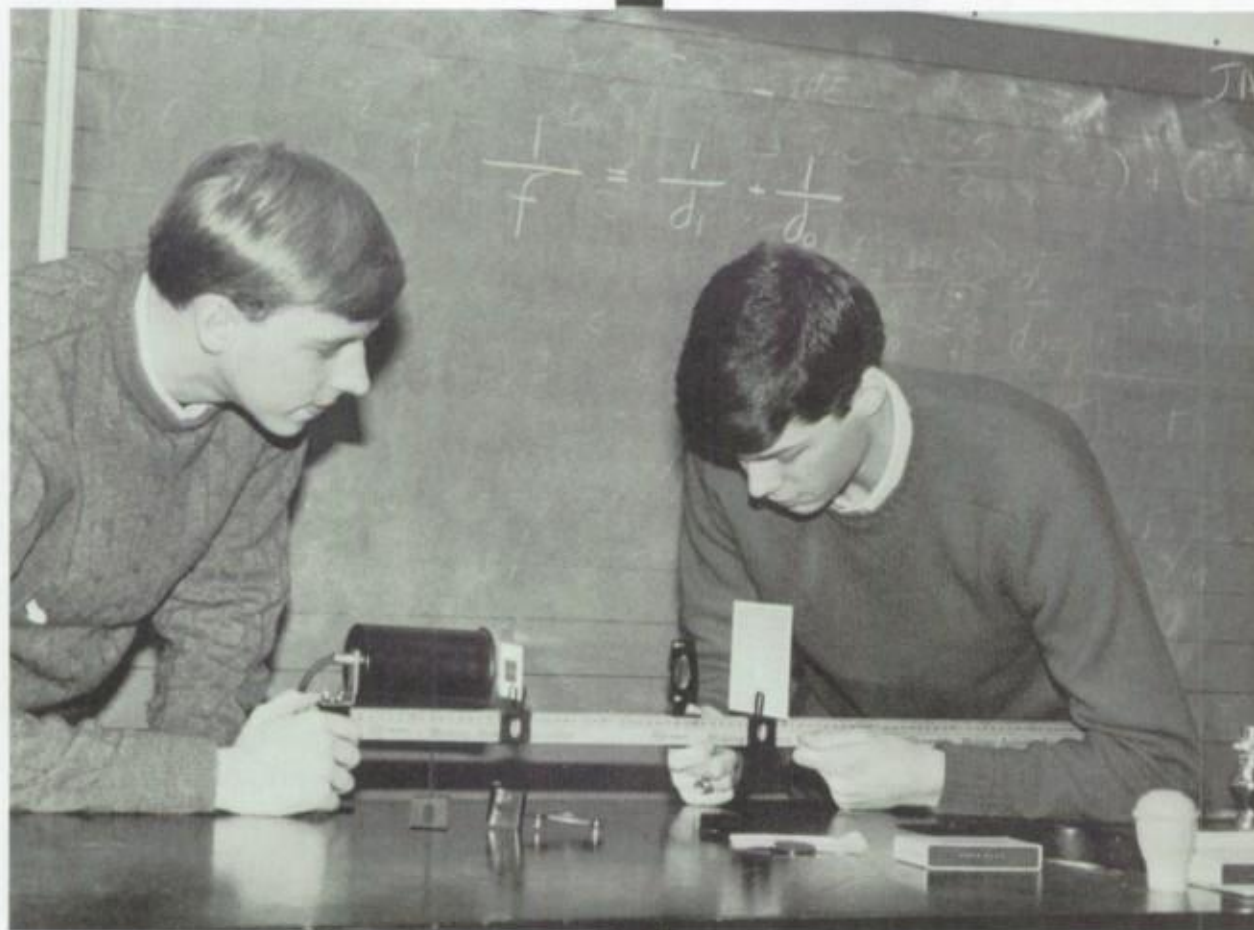

Kyle Malott searches for material to use in his term paper.

SCIENCE

The importance of a Christian school science education is clearly seen in light of today's humanistic theories. The Bible, God's Word, is the ultimate authority of Heritage Hall's science classes.

The students are edified spiritually by learning the truth about God. They are also academically challenged by taking courses taught by either Mr. Moorehead or Miss Mather. Both science teachers demand excellence from their students. Their concern is that the students really know what has been taught.

While Mike Kersey records his answers, Kevin VanCott searches the realms of the unseen.

Steve Shroyer and Derek Cheek prove the formula while demonstrating the use of the optical bench.

The one that didn't get away.

SPEECH AND FOREIGN LANGUAGES

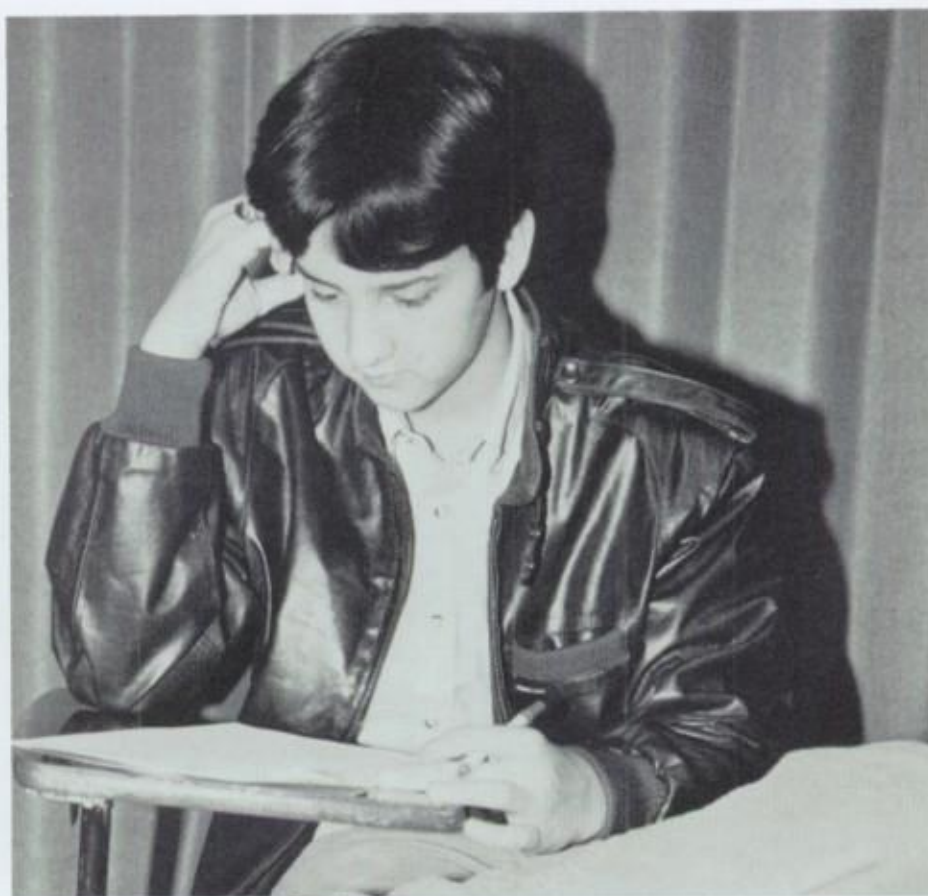

Speech and foreign languages play an important role in making our education at Heritage Hall complete. Speech students have the opportunity to learn how to speak comfortably in front of others, as well as how to express themselves adequately. The student body also has the choice between two foreign languages — French and Latin. Each class learns how to speak, as well as write, the different languages. Both speech and foreign languages help make our experience at Heritage Hall "one of a kind".

Jennifer Caupp gives a speech on why she's packing up and leaving.

Amy Tooley tells us everything she knows about France.

MUSIC

Heritage Hall music education begins in the preschool. Under the direction of Mrs. Richey, the children learn to enjoy singing. Miss Burk directs elementary music, in which lessons are available to encourage musical interest. Learning of hymns and composers is part of the Junior High program. Choir and band are available to all secondary students. Mr. Seeley, who joined the faculty of Heritage Hall this year, is director of the band and choir program. Music education and opportunities to use musical talents are a vital part of the educational program of Heritage Hall.

Mr. Seeley

SR. HIGH CHOIR

JR. HIGH CHOIR

BUSINESS AND MATH

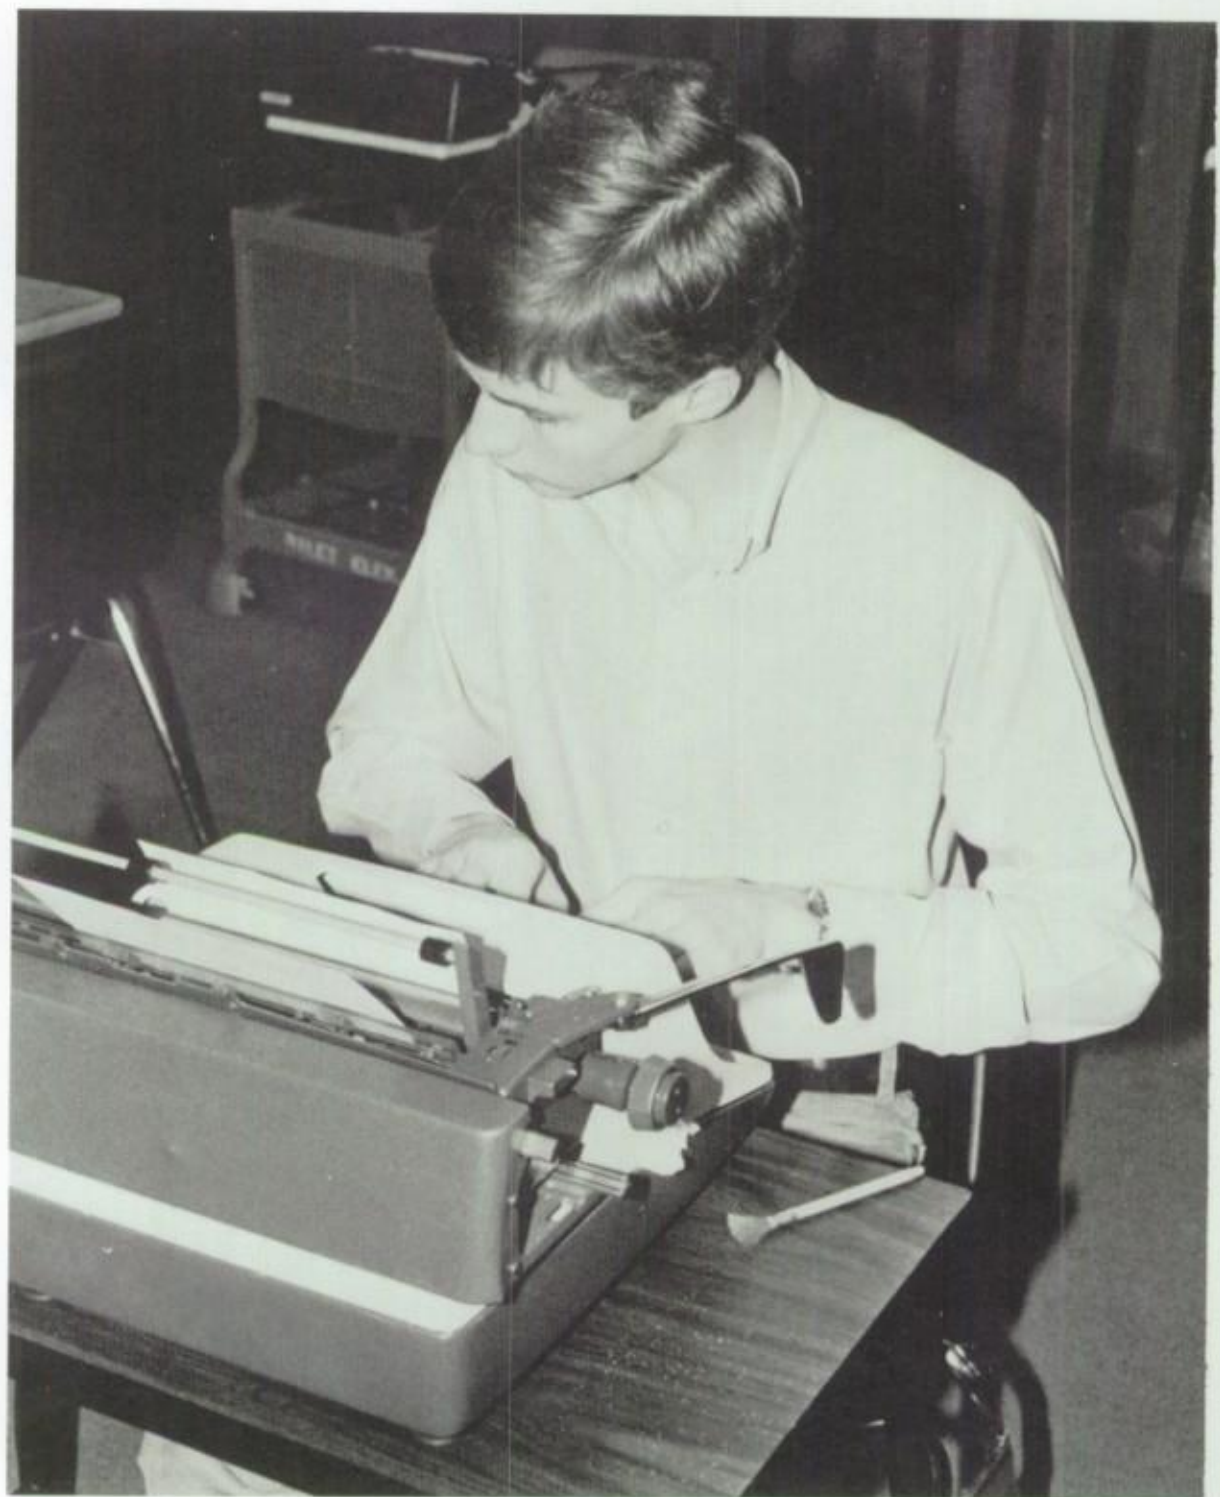

Heritage Hall Christian School offers a wide variety of business and math courses. These subjects incorporate discipline into the students lives by increasing their ability to reason logically. Beyond the general math courses, Algebra, Geometry and Trigonometry are taught to the high school students. For those interested in entering the business field, computer, accounting, shorthand and typing enhance their knowledge and skill.

Freshman Algebra students strive for excellence on their math test.

Computer students apply themselves to the completion of their program.

Working toward speed and accuracy, Sean Cranor practices his technique.

AMERICAN CHRISTIAN HONOR SOCIETY

The American Christian Honor Society was founded by the American Association of Christian Schools in March of 1979. This organization fulfilled the need for honoring qualified students within the Christian schools.

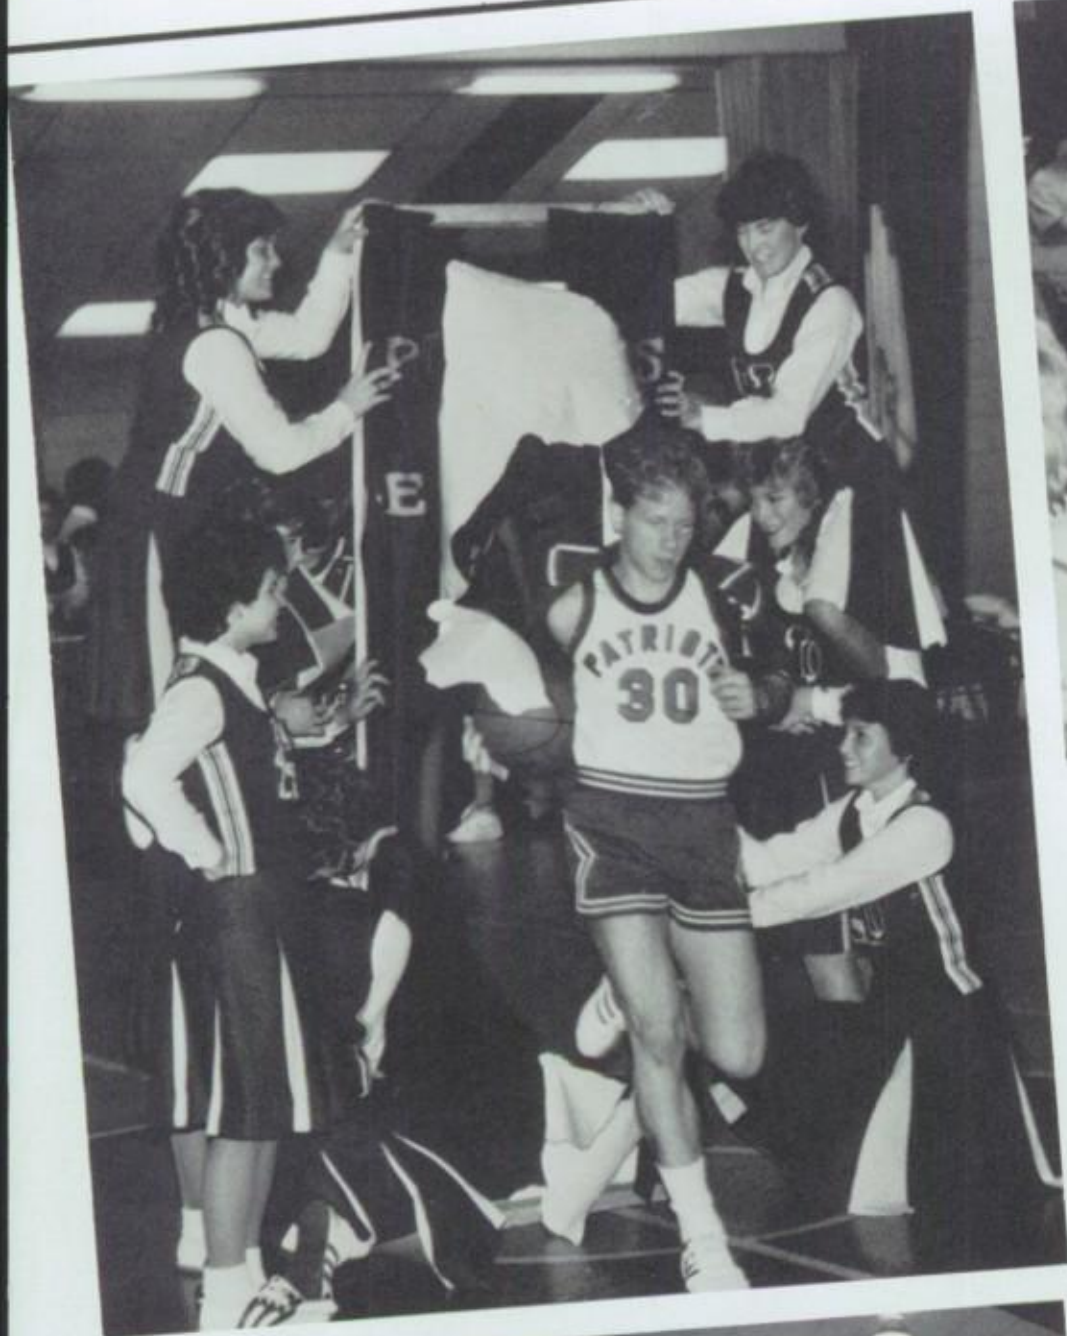

These students are selected by the administrator and teachers. To qualify, the students must be in the tenth, eleventh, or twelfth grades. Prospective members must have at least a 95% average and must demonstrate the attributes of Christian character, Christian leadership, and Christian service. Students are awarded this honor at the Honors Banquet held in May.

Members of the Society are:

Angela Brown
Jennifer Caupp
Derek Cheek
Tamar Dersch
Lori Morvilius
Ronda Ray
Elizabeth Richardson
Steve Shroyer
Gladie Stroup
Carolyn Tobey
Troy Young

At Heritage Hall, junior high students have the opportunity to participate in soccer, basketball, and cheerleading. On the high school level, athletic competition is available in varsity and reserve soccer, basketball, cheerleading, and intramural volleyball. Mr. Callan, the Athletic Director, Mr. Scott, and Mr. Moorehead shared in the coaching responsibilities. Cheerleading sponsors were Mrs. Callan and Miss Adermann. Miss Mather coached the girl's volleyball team.

ATHLETICS

SOCCER . . . Instant replay

This year's soccer season was teamwork personified. An outstanding offense led by senior co-captain Kyle Malott and aggressive defense led by senior co-captain Randy Glenn, led Heritage Hall to a victorious 6-4 season.

The most outstanding events of the season were, no doubt, the confrontations between H.H.C.S. and I.C.A. The first time we met, the Patriots suffered a 2-0 loss after a hard-fought battle. The next game against our rival was at home and, although the Patriots were fired up, we lost in a close decision, 2-1. The final game was the state tournament play-off game. The Patriots fought to a 2-0 lead and maintained their advantage the remainder of the game. Heritage had won the right to go on and compete at Elkhart. H.H.C.S. beat Calumet 3-0 in the first game, and went on to play in the finals. We were beaten by Elkhart 6-1 and were state runners-up.

Kyle Malott shows his skill in shooting just before the defender reaches him.

BASKETBALL . . . Time out

This years varsity basketball team had the potential to have a very successful season. The team consisted of a majority of under-classmen who gained valuable courttime and experience this year. Mr. Scott expects great things from this team in the years to come, due to the experience gained this season. According to Coach Scott, the Patriots may win a few state championships in the upcoming years because they are very "coachable." We'll all be watching.

JUNIOR HIGH ATHLETICS

The Junior High Patriot soccer team, directed by Coach Moorehead, showed a great deal of ability and determination. Mr. Moorehead was pleased with the sportsmanship of the team, realizing that a good testimony for the school was being displayed. The team developed as the season progressed. The players developed individual skills and learned the importance of working together.

This years Junior High basketball team, consisting mainly of seventh graders, displayed a large amount of potential. The players, coached by Mr. Callan, increased their knowledge of basketball by learning numerous plays as well as sharpening their defensive skills. The experience gained this year will enable them to be better prepared for their upcoming high school seasons.

On the sidelines

1984-1985 was a great year for sports at Heritage Hall as the Patriots excelled in both basketball and soccer. Both teams spent many strenuous hours practicing in order to fulfill their dreams of winning state. On the sidelines, 22 loyal and enthusiastic Patriot fans led the crowds in cheering the guys on to victories. All three squads spent long hours practicing, travelling to sporting events, and cheering during intense games. Off the court, the cheerleaders incited school spirit by awarding spirit sticks, decorating hallways, and preparing pep sessions. Coupled with the hard work were hours of laughter and good times which they will treasure for years to come.

This year was a year of student participation. Whether in the junior or senior high. There were many opportunistic activities. Class officer positions offered leadership activity to each class. The senior class, with the aid of the student body, was able to capitalize on their fund-raising activities. These activities included the country fair, QL's barbeque, and the paper drive. These along with other school activities, such as pep sessions, kept the entire school involved this year.

ACTIVITIES

SENIOR PROJECTS

This year's senior class had many special projects which they sponsored, in order to raise money for their senior trip to Europe.

The sixth annual Country Fair was a tremendous success. This year a new attraction was featured — a Car Wash. It helped boost the sales of the Country Fair, as well as help the senior class get a good start on their funds.

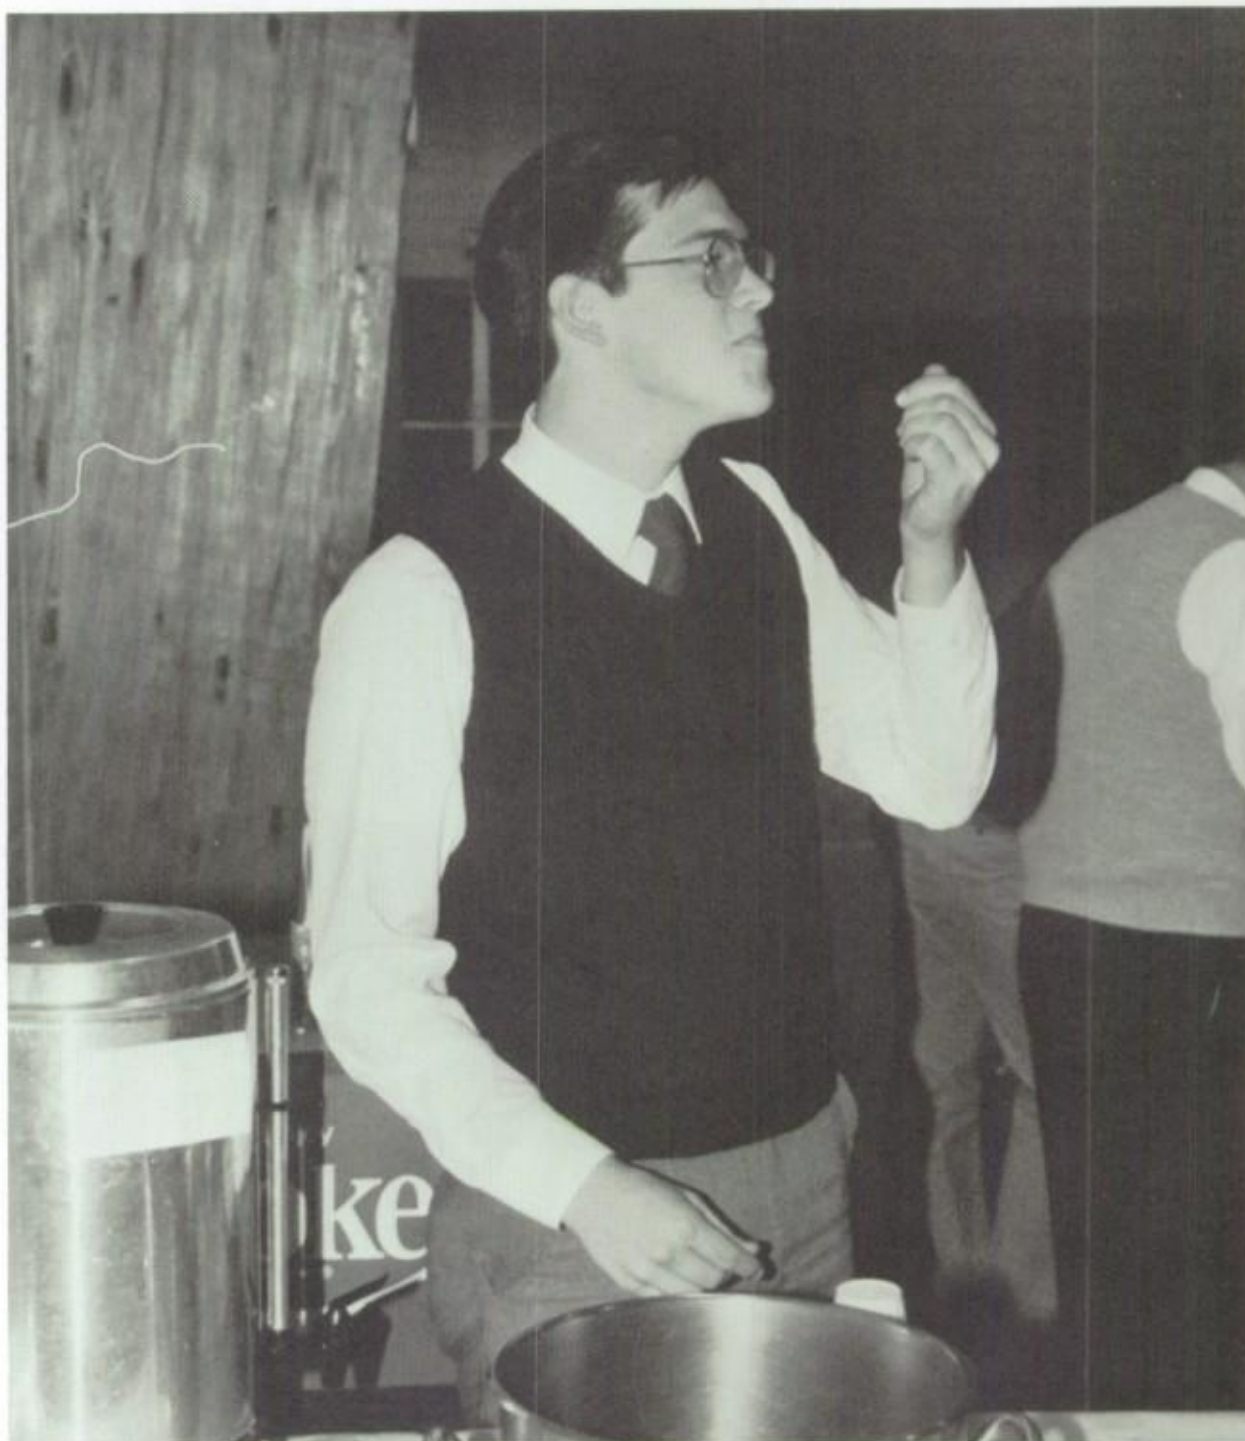

Another new fund raiser was Q.L.'s Barbecue. The novelty proved to be a great success. The paper drive, as well as concession stand sales helped to add to the funds for the seniors.

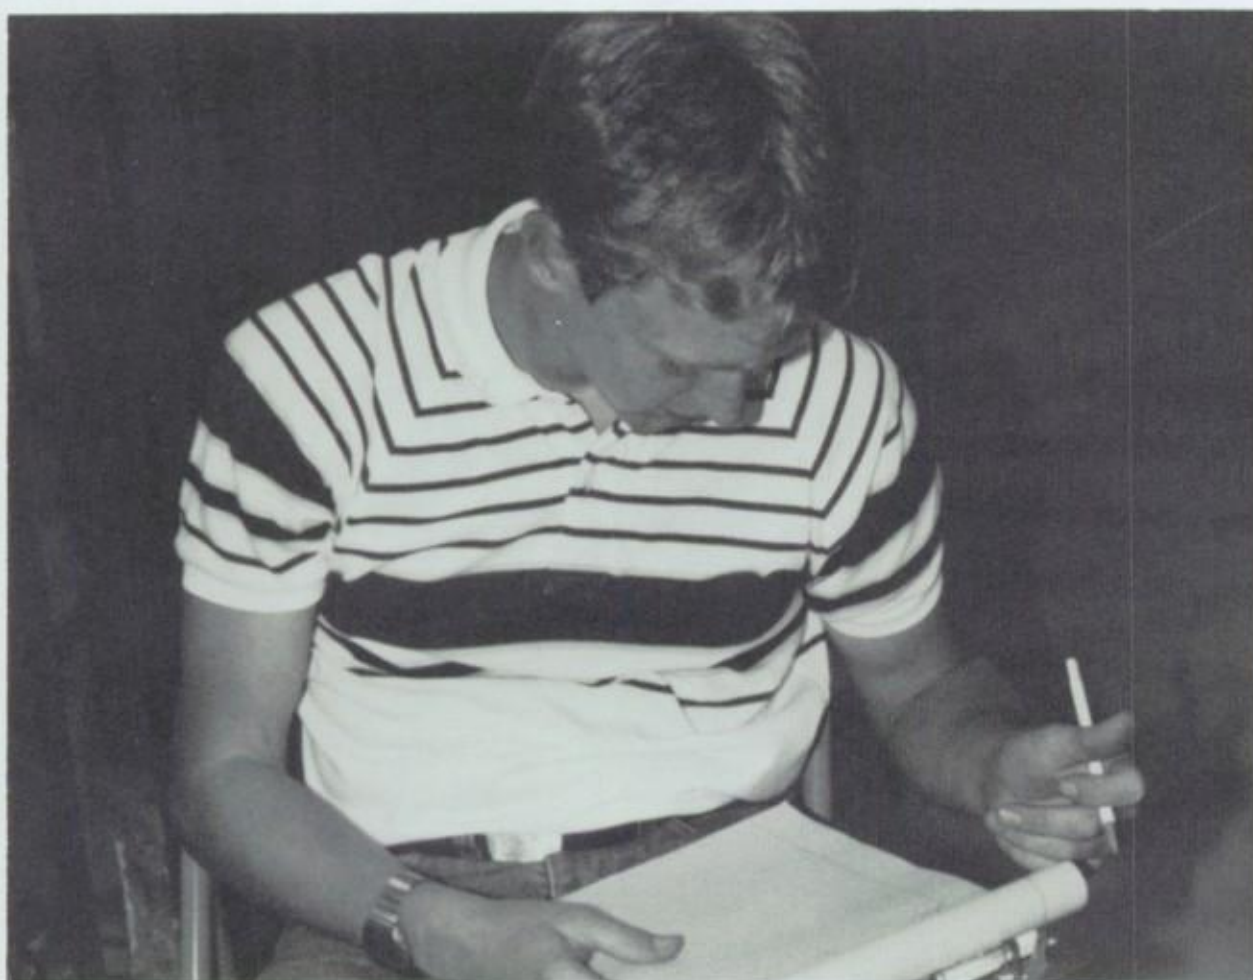

None of the projects would have been a success without the help of each senior's parents. They put in a great deal of time, energy, and effort to help their children go to Europe, for one of the greatest learning experiences of their high school years.

Troy Young's opinion of the Q.L.'s Barbecue Ribs was "Mmm . . . Magnifico!"

"Can you believe these prices?" asks Tamar Dersch.

Mrs. Young and Mrs. Malott share cooking secrets during the Country Fair.

The senior guys look pleased with the results of the paper drive.

Craig Reeder plays "jailor" at the Country Fair.

How many hands does it take to shut a Q.L.'s Barbecue box-to-go?"

RUMPELSTILTSKIN

This year's elementary play proved to be a great success. "Rumpelstiltskin" was about a young girl whose father claimed that she could spin straw into gold. The king heard the tale and Gretchen was brought to the palace. A little man helped Gretchen by spinning the straw into gold for a small "fee" — her first child. She married the king and forgot about the little man. Her child was born and Rumpelstiltskin came to claim his prize. Gretchen pleaded for mercy and he said that she could keep the baby if she could guess his name. Gretchen overheard his name, was able to keep her baby, and lived happily every after. The play was directed by Mrs. Callan and the costumes were designed by Mrs. Stroup.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SLEPT HERE

Last year's high school play "George Washington Slept Here", directed by Mrs. Callan, was a "one of a kind" event. The comical plot depicted how a family moved from a big city apartment to a delapidated old farm house. The Fullers spend quite a bit of money in attempt to fix up the run-down house, and in the process encounter financial difficulties as well as run-ins with odd neighbors. They grow to love the old house, into which they put much work, and when they learn that they may have to leave, they are greatly disappointed. A visit from a supposedly "rich" uncle sends their hopes for financial aid soaring, but they soon learn that he had gone bankrupt several years before. He plays the part of the "rich uncle", though, and he convinces a snooty, rich neighbor that they would make their house payment a little late. The Fullers are able to stay.

PEP SESSIONS/SCHOOL SPIRIT

During the school year many exciting events took place to help school spirit. Special spirit weeks were planned that allowed individuals, as well as classes, to express their spirit.

School spirit plays an important role in making Heritage Hall a "one of a kind" school. The unity shown throughout the student body and staff helps raise excitement during pep sessions and also the team's spirit before and during the games.

"Elementary, are you there? Get your hands up in the air!"

Randy Glenn, Kyle Malott, Andy Zirkle, and Troy Young break up an ICA "Sellabrayshun" and show them where the spirit and power are.

Bruce Frazee and Andy Zirkle show what true spirit really is . . . involvement.

Joey Hickey shows that even a first grader can get involved and show school spirit.

Randy Glenn gets "faced" with a pie by Tamar Dersch during a pep session spirit contest.

YEARBOOK

"One of a Kind" described the 1984-85 yearbook staff as they worked diligently to produce a quality annual. Six seniors and five juniors met daily with Mr. Smith, their supervisor, in order to complete the tight schedule. Although they worked with perserverance, many hours were spent after school and on weekends in order to meet the established deadlines. The staff's dedication to their task proved itself in a successful yearbook.

Solemnly posing for his mug shot, Mr. Smith displays the yearbook staff's identification number.

Tamar Dersch is diligently working to meet the appraoching deadline.

Heritage '85 staff: Derek Cheek, Steve Shroyer, Kyle Malott, Bruce Frazee, Angela Brown, Amy Tooley, Jennifer Shelton, Ronda Ray, Gladie Stroup, and Tamar Dersch.
